

Many excellent and revealing stories have been done by Mr. Lawrence exposing my fight to save my Mother's life, to bring her back to her large and beautiful home of 20 years, to expose the guardian mafia, including corrupt judges, corrupt guardians, corrupt lawyers, corrupt psychologists, corrupt care managers, etc. This case also involved by ex-sister and her shister lawyer camp who filed the fake petition for the ownership, NOT guardianship, on ex-sister's Mother starting at Mother's age of 96. The ex-sister and shister filed her fake guardianship, which did NOT give any examples of either financial, mental or personal need for any guardian to oversee Mother's life. The fake petition was filed TWO days after Mother's 96th birthday. In addition, while on the stand, I asked ex-sister did she ever discuss the petition with our mother before the petition was filed? Ex-sister said no because she did not think the petition for guardianship was that important. NO professional person that Mother dealt with every year was ever brought into court by ex-sister/camp to claim Mother had any such problems. WTF?

Weilheimer and cry baby jaskowiak were both experts in guardian laws and weilheimer had assigned cry baby jaskowiak to Mother as her personal lawyer only 3 days after petition was filed which did NOT give Mother any time to get her own lawyer. Why didn't weilheimer and/or cry baby demand the petition be denied because it give NOT give any examples that Mother needed any guardian and did not meet any of the requirements by Pennsylvania law for any guardianship?

Answer: Both of them knew Mother had vast assets and they/mafia wanted that money.

6/11/24

70-Year-Old Man Risks Prison To See 99-Year-Old Mom

70-Year-Old Man Risks Prison To See 99-Year-Old Mom — The nightmare for Arthur started in May 2021 when his older sister filed a petition seeking guardianship of his mom, Jane.

It was two days after Jane's 96th birthday.

Arthur, now 70, had moved into mom's sprawling home in Franconia, Montgomery County, Pa., two years earlier, mostly to keep her company.

Jane, a widow of 12 years, was independent, active and even still driving.

Arthur was doing the shopping, though. It was the height of Covid and he was hoping to keep her isolated.

Arthur represented himself at a hearing in July. Sis had her own lawyer and the courts assigned attorney David Jaskowiak to represent Jane.

Jane accepted Jaskowiak because she was told he came free, Arthur said.

Spoiler: He didn't.

Arthur said he suggested that Jaskowiak have Jane's doctor of 21 years as a witness to her competency, as well as her CPA, investment advisors and hairdresser.

For some reason, Jaskowiak called no witnesses, Arthur said.

His sister dropped out as discovery started and that should have meant Arthur got the job, one would think.

but no.

Jaskowiak said that because Arthur and Sis didn't get along, the court would have to appoint a guardian. Judge Gail Weilheimer tapped Duane Logie for the job.

Logie turned out to be a friend of Jaskowiak, says Arthur. He would be both guardian of estate, which is responsible for financial matters, and guardian of person who is task for caring for the living conditions and medical things.

When the same person is both there is no check and balance, says Arthur.

Jane stayed in her familiar home for a week after the court declared her incapacitated. Logie said the health care manager wanted to meet Jane at her house. A date was arranged but rather than a health care manager it was local police who showed along with Logie and Arthur's sister.

Police physically restrained Arthur on the front porch. He said he heard his mother screaming inside. The cops held him as his sister and Logie took the 96-year-old woman in tears to his sister's car.

Sis sent an email to Arthur warning him not to come to her house else he'd be arrested, he said. She wouldn't let Jane call him.

Sister kept Jane at her house for 10 days before she fell unconscious and an ambulance had to be called. She spent six weeks in the hospital being treated for starvation, Arthur said.

Arthur said the treatment included sticking a needle 42 times in the stomach to prevent blood clots.

Oh, and while there she finally did catch Covid.

When that ordeal ended Jane was dumped at Manatawny Manor in Pottstown. Arthur describes it as a low-rated nursing home in Pottstown.

Manatawny Manor had just reopened after a Covid shut down.

Arthur says Judge Weilheimer initially allowed him one hour visitation three times a week but soon reduced it to one-hour per month in retaliation for the questions he was asking.

He said his visits started becoming supervised. He was forbidden to take cell phone video of his mom.

What honest reason could there be for that restriction?

Arthur says he now finds it lucky to be able to see his mother. The last time was in December.

He says Jane, who is now 99, was able to recognize him and could still dress herself.

He said he could have spent 16,300 waking hours with his mother between August 2021 and June 2024. As it was, he got but 224 hours.

Arthur says the powers-that-be have a financial incentive for keeping his mom. He says Jaskowiak charges $300 per hour. He said the guardian who replaced Logie — and who he says is also friends of Jaskowiak — got $125 per hour. Further, Arthur says she hired her husband to do legal work on Jane's behalf for which he got $400 per hour. Further, Arthur says, the hubby hired four other lawyers who also charge $400 per hour.

"When one talks to the other, they charge the estate $800," said Arthur.

Arthur says the court charges the estate $90,000 per year for the nursing home and accepted the yearly cost — which includes things like insurance and taxes — of Jane living at her home at $16,500.

He says he never see invoices.

Arthur has been in prison three times for defending his mom.

The first one was when he placed a story on his website ProtectMyParents.us that included information Weilheimer wanted hidden. Arthur said Jane was fine with what he wrote, but no matter.

Weilheimer sentenced him to six months in Montgomery County Prison or until he removed the material. He says he thinks she expected him serve the full six months as there were no computers in prison to fix it. A friend, though, came to his rescue and removed the offending information which let him go free after 10 days.

The second incarceration happened after he rewrote and published the story leaving out all names. He did, however, include a link to an archived copy of the original. This prison stint was just a week before his computer friend could fix things.

Both contempt orders were instigated by Jaskowiak.

He said a third contempt attempt in December by Jaskowiak failed. Jaskowiak said one of the those monitoring his visits said he used his cell phone camera to record his mother. A reasonable person would find such a prohibition curious, but nevermind, the judge said it was a no-no.

Arthur, however, did not do this vile transgression and proved it at a March 20 hearing.

Arthur has a new judge, by the way, who is Melissa Sterling.

Now, the most recent battle.

Arthur learned where Jaskowiak lived in New Britain in Bucks County.

He composed a two-page letter concerning his views about guardianship corruption, and put copies under every doormat on Jaskowiak's street on April 10.

On April 23, he began picketing in front his house. A State Trooper who lived on the street said he was on private property. Arthur said that he was on the sidewalk. The trooper said it was private property and he would arrest him if he stayed.

Arthur was getting tired of jail so he left but went to the township building and confirmed the sidewalk was public.

He returned on April 27. His sign contained Jaskowiak's name; and the words "human traffic" and "sex pervert".

The traffic concerned what Arthur considers to be the kidnapping of his mom. He says the "sex pervert" is in reference to a instructional video he found of Jaskowiak reportedly describing strategic use of contempt of court complaints and the threat of being sodomized in prison.

After two hours of picketing, Arthur was arrested and charged with harassment. The judge set his bail at $100,000 of which he needed to raise $10,000 to be free.

Arthur points out that he lives out of his car and receives welfare.

After five weeks in Bucks County Prison, the bail was lowered to 10 percent of $10,000 and friends managed to get him out.

Before he retired, Arthur trained and practiced voice stress analysis, which is a type of lie detection. For 41-years, he tested criminal suspects, potential employees and helped investigate insurance fraud. His clients included the military, police and major corporations. He traveled the nation and the world.

Arthur notes that there are no standards or requirements as to what constitutes an accurate evaluation of a person that will determine incapacitation in Pennsylvania. He also points out that court psychologists don't record sessions and have no proof as to how a person answered.

Arthur says he hasn't seen his mom for a half of a year.

"I don't know what my mother is thinking," he said. "Does she think I'm dead? Does she think I don't love her anymore?"

Sick, stupid and cruel people are in charge of America.

Ed. Note: We have left out Arthur's last name as he fears using it will give the Montco courts an excuse to throw him back in prison.

Arthur at the March Montco Commissioners Meeting

70-Year-Old Man Risks Prison To See 99-Year-Old Mom

 BillLawrence / June 11, 2024 / Child Services Family Courts, feudalism, Montco

2 thoughts on “70-Year-Old Man Risks Prison To See 99-Year-Old Mom”

 Donna Ellingsen

June 11, 2024 at 7:48 pm

This is Horrific! the (In)Justice Court system is a great tragedy and is thoroughly exploited by unscrupulous and evil people.

This brave man is taking a stance which is revealing the corruption and vindictiveness of the whole system.

Like

Brad

June 12, 2024 at 7:58 am

Wild guess-the judges and Jaskowiak are also Democrats? Not necessarily a correlation, but I'm just curious.

Like

This site uses Akismet to reduce spam. Learn how your comment data is processed.

BillLawrenceOnline / Proudly powered by WordPress

7/2/24

Jane Herring Dies So Judge Sends Son Who Defended Her To Prison

Jane Herring Dies So Judge Sends Son Who Defended Her To Prison — Jane Herring died about 7 o'clock this morning, July 2. Her son Arthur had not been able to talk to her since December and even then only with supervision.

Bucks County President Judge Raymond F. McHugh revoked Arthur's bail sending him back to Bucks County Prison eight hours after Jane's death.

That's not much time to grieve.

Arthur is facing a charge of harassment for picketing the New Britain home of David Jaskowiak, who had been the lawyer appointed by Montgomery County Orphan's Court for Jane. His arrest was April 27. Bail was initially set at 10 percent of $100,000 — remember Arthur is an American citizen so the breaks illegal aliens get don't apply to him — and he was hauled away.

After five weeks in the lockup, bail was reduced to 10 percent of $10,000 and friends were able to free him.

Among the conditions of bail set by McHugh, however, were that Arthur have no contact with Jaskowiak.

→ On June 10, Arthur cc'd Jaskowiak on an email sent to the court-appointed guardian of the estate informing him that their mail to him was being sent to an incorrect address and unfortunately include a few choice words.

→ Jaskowiak immediately contacted the court and a bail revocation hearing was scheduled.

→ Arthur had been living in his car. He is 70 years old, weighs 135 pounds and will stay in prison until his pre-trial hearing, July 16.

→ A lawyer once gave a law lecture about ways an attorney could send an opponent to prison via lawfare. He would get three hots and a cot and a date with Bubba, this lawyer said.

→ Whoever could this lawyer be?

Arthur very well might miss his mother's funeral.

This was one contact in a month of freedom.

Does McHugh have an ounce of compassion or is he just lacking common sense?

Or maybe it's just the backstory that he's missing.

It can be read here.

Montgomery County's court system is rife with horror stories concerning family matters like divorces and guardianships.

One can be read here.

And another here.

Let's not forget this one.

Or just do a search for Elaine Mickman.

Some are saying that what's happening is simply legal robbery allowing those connected with county legal systems to loot the estates of those in domestic turmoil.

We will reserve judgement.

But we will ask questions.

Why can a mother be prohibited from seeing her son when the son wants to see her and she wants to see him?

Why would a judge prohibit a family member from videoing a person under guardianship?

How could skin cancer not be diagnosed in a nursing home until it became malignant?

That's what happened to Jane Herring.

A final thought: Why would the subject of a competency hearing be told it was not necessary to call witnesses?

Jane Herring Dies So Judge Sends Son

6 thoughts on “Jane Herring Dies So Judge Sends Son Who Defended Her To Prison”

Hugh W.

July 2, 2024 at 7:29 pm

They sent him to jail only hours after his mother died over an e-mail?

The judge needs to resign over this travesty.

Like

Jenny

July 2, 2024 at 10:37 pm

“Guardianship” in Montgomery county is one of the most evil and corrupt arrangements I’ve ever had the misfortune to experience.

There is absolutely no justification for depriving someone of their children, grandchildren, other relatives and friends in their waning years. Jane Herring was not even allowed visitors, except for the mentioned extremely limited and supervised visitations from her son. I know this because I attempted to visit her. It is unfathomable that we have legal and judicial systems which not only allow, but encourage, this atrocious human-ownership and deprivation of natural interactions. This is absolutely the opposite of beneficial to our seniors.

Like

Sharon Devaney

July 3, 2024 at 5:33 am

It was absolutely horrid seeing this 70 year old man taken away in shackles yesterday, the same day his mother died. He is hardly a threat in any way . I did not know I would be watching him eat his last meal , heartbreaking. In the meantime illegals and other criminals are committing serious crimes and are being let go. The illegal who destroyed my life is still free and this poor sweet older man is not. God is going to get retribution for this believe you me.

Like

B sanders

July 3, 2024 at 1:57 pm

This is such terrible news. Arthur is really no threat AT ALL. I was hoping he would get a chance to see his mother before she died. There needs to be more attention on this story. The lawyer needs to be stopped and the judge should be ashamed.

Like

Brad

July 3, 2024 at 5:40 pm

Forget shame, forget resignation. McHugh is not likely to feel shame, nor resign on his own. Progressive petty tyrants don't feel shame and they'll stay dug in like a tick till they're chased out.

Is his position an elected one or an appointed one? If he's elected, vote him out. If he's appointed, then it'll take voting out whomever appointed him.

Loading...

Ann

August 15, 2024 at 2:17 pm

I had addressed the Montco commissioners at one of their meetings soon after attending a previous meeting regarding Arthur Herring and his plea to visit with his sickly 99 year old mother who was in a demeaning so-called rest home. I recently learned that his mother passed on. Even more shocking for me was to learn that court appointed so-called guardians were the recipients of the Herring estate. It was brought to my attention that these 'guardians' and others in the same ring have been appointed by ruthless judges to oversee and gainfully profit from many victims in Montgomery and Bucks counties. OMG! I thought I was living in America, not some alienated nation where citizens are abused and dumped by the hands of such horrible individuals and the relatives of these victims are threatened with similar treatment if they dare to question the system.

Loading...

This site uses Akismet to reduce spam. Learn how your comment data is processed.

BillLawrenceOnline / Proudly powered by WordPress

6/27/24

Hearing On Sending Arthur Back To Prison Continued; County Doing What It Can To Stop Mother And Child Reunion

Hearing On Sending Arthur Back To Prison Continued; County Doing What It Can To Stop Mother And Child Reunion — A hearing on revoking Arthur Herring's bail was continued until July 2 because complainant David Jaskowiak couldn't appear at the one held, yesterday, June 26 before Bucks County President Judge Raymond F. McHugh

Arthur was arrested, April 27, for picketing Jaskowiak's home in New Britain. He was charged with two counts of harassment and sent to Bucks County Prison on $100,000 bail.

Arthur is homeless.

After five weeks in the county lockup, McHugh lowered the bail to 10 percent of $10,000 and Arthur's friends were able to free him.

Bail reduction requests are allowed after 30 days. Arthur says it was granted because he explained he was only picketing on a public sidewalk and not saying anything.

Jaskowiak is the lawyer appointed by Montgomery County as attorney for Arthur's mother.

His mom has been under court-mandated guardianship since May 2021. See this story.

Arthur feels the county is slowly siphoning off his mother's estate without her permission. This is reason enough for anger but far worse, though, is how they are preventing mother and son from seeing each other.

Arthur and his mom haven't been together since December. Arthur blames Jaskowiak.

McHugh, as conditions of bail, directed Arthur to get a psychiatric evaluation, apply for a public defender and not have contact with Jaskowiak.

Getting the psych evaluation was harder than it sounded but Arthur managed. He applied for a public defender but met him for the first time yesterday. Public defenders are swamped let us note. The fellow, by the way, seems like a pretty decent lawyer.

Arthur, unfortunately, sent an email to the court-appointed guardian of the estate — whose salary is coming from the estate — informing him that their mail to him was being sent to an incorrect address. He cc'd Jaskowiak as had been his custom. Jaskowiak contacted police who contacted the judge who called a hearing about revoking bail

Arthur's mom is 99 years old and Arthur is 70. If he goes to prison he may never see his mom again.

It's one thing to keep a parent from an abusive child but if mom wants to see child and child wants to see mom, and the system lets a petty tyrant stop that, the system is evil.

Arthur protesting at a Montco Commissioners meeting

 BillLawrence / June 27, 2024 / Child Services Family Courts

4 thoughts on “Hearing On Sending Arthur Back To Prison Continued; County Doing What It Can To Stop Mother And Child Reunion”

 Tracye

June 27, 2024 at 11:46 am

“The system is evil.” This is a perfect summary of what is going on. Thank you to all who are standing up.

7/12/24

Problematic Montco Judge Tapped For Fed Court

Problematic Montco Judge Tapped For Fed Court — Montgomery County Common Pleas Court Judge Gail A. Weilheimer has been nominated by Joe Biden to serve as United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania.

The nomination was recommended by Pennsylvania's Democrat senators Bob Casey and John Fetterman.

Judge Weilheimer is involved with the troubling stories regarding family court matter in Montco, including the torture inflicted on Arthur Herring.

She is the wife of Philadelphia Inquirer Vice President and Chief General Counsel Larry Wellheimer, and closely connected to Gov. Josh Shapiro.

With Democrat control of the US Senate her confirmation is basically assured.

7/12/24

Problematic Montco Judge Tapped For Fed Court

 BillLawrence / July 12, 2024 / Child Services Family Courts, Federal Courts, Montco

One thought on “Problematic Montco Judge Tapped For Fed Court”

Freedom lover

July 12, 2024 at 4:47 pm

In view of a July nomination in an election year, I would not say “confirmation is basically assured.” It could happen but will be tight as to whether there is time to get her confirmed. The fact that both PA senators are in her corner is very helpful in expediting but not controlling. The Senate will have a lot of time off in the summer and in connection with the election. They could make this a priority and get it done but it otherwise will be tight.

Liked by 1 person

7/16/24

Arthur Herring Gets Year Probation For Defending Mother In Her Loneliness

Arthur Herring Gets Year Probation For Defending Mother In Her Loneliness — Arthur Herring was sentenced to 12 months probation by Bucks County President Judge Raymond F. McHugh, this morning, July 16, for picketing the New Britain home of David Jaskowiak.

The charge was harassment. Jaskowiak was the court-appointed lawyer for Arthur's mother, Jane.

Jaskowiak was appointed by Montgomery County where Jane had lived.

Jane died the morning of July 2. That afternoon, McHugh revoked Arthur's bail returning him to Bucks County Prison.

McHugh had forbidden Arthur to contact Jaskowiak.

Arthur cc'd him, however, in in an email to the court-appointed guardian of the estate.

It was the only contact Arthur, age 70, had with the attorney in a month of freedom since his bail was lowered to what he could afford.

He was arrested for the picketing, April 27. He had spent five weeks in jail on $100,000 bail.

McHugh, today, allowed Arthur a chance to make a statement before sentencing.

Arthur, probably against the advice of his lawyer, did.

Jaskowiak was appointed with the expectation his mother could replace him, Arthur said.

One might expect that to be the case. It's what we're taught in civics class, after all.

Not so in guardianship matters, though.

Arthur, tearfully, said that Jaskowiak wouldn't let his mother to call witnesses such as her doctor and financial advisors in her competency hearing.

And the county found her incompetent, sentencing her to spend two years of wretched misery in poorly managed nursing homes and away from her beloved son.

He also accused Jaskowiak and the appointed guardians of siphoning money from the estate by giving no-work jobs to friends, and billing for unnecessary work.

Arthur slowly lost access to his mom. The last time they saw each other was in December. The courts prohibited him from taking photos and video of her.

Really, what's up with that?

Arthur also took issue with a claim by the prosecution regarding the sign he held during the picketing. The prosecution said Arthur accused Jaskowiak of being a sex trafficker.

Arthur said he did not accuse Jaskowiak of being a sex trafficker.

He said he accused him of being a human trafficker and a sex pervert.

The human trafficking concerned what he considered to be the kidnapping of his mother, Arthur said. The sex pervert claim stems from video Jaskowiak made for a legal seminar. Jaskowiak explained how opponents can be goaded into getting jailed for contempt of court and this would lead them to a "date with Bubba."

Arthur reasoned that Jaskowiak was promoting male rape.

McHugh lectured Arthur that disputes must be settled in court and that he most certainly broke the law, which Arthur objectively did.

Calling someone a sex pervert is illegal on a public street.

Judge McHugh made a legitimate point, but one wonders what is the recourse when courts go bad.

There most certainly is something bad in Pennsylvania's guardianship system.

One story can be read here.

And another here.

Let's not forget this one.

Or just do a search for Elaine Mickman.

Montgomery County Common Pleas Court Judge Gail A. Weilheimer, who was one of the judges who tormented Arthur, has been nominated by Joe Biden to serve as a United States District Court judge for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania.

Arthur Herring giving it to the Montgomery County establishment

Bill Lawrence / July 16, 2024 / Bucks, Child Services Family Courts, Montco

4 thoughts on “Arthur Herring Gets Year Probation For Defending Mother In Her Loneliness”

Joseph B Dychala

July 16, 2024 at 4:45 pm

Sentence should have been time served. Period. If this isn't Cruel and Unusual then what is.

Liked by 1 person

Liberty4All

July 16, 2024 at 5:41 pm

This is so sickening. Why is it a crime to call some one a sex pervert or whatever on a public street? What happened to Free Speech, and especially against a public figure?

Like

Joseph B Dychala

July 16, 2024 at 6:22 pm

Apparently "sex perverts" are a "protected class."

Like

Jenny Reimenschneider

July 16, 2024 at 11:18 pm

Thanks for another well-written peephole into the travesty known as "guardianship". While some may disapprove of his methods in this latest set of events, Arthur resorted to them only after a multitude of clearly faulty actions and decisions on the part of the system that is alleged to protect seniors. A system for which ALL taxpayers are robbed of their hard-earned income to fund outrageous incomes for judges immune from any repercussions of their harmful actions. A system which bankrolls court personnel, sheriffs, and court-appointed attorneys (yes, not only is someone under "guardianship" forbidden from switching their legal "representative", but once they run out of money the public pays via county tax dollars to forcibly retain the uninvolved, harmless lawyers who make more than you and I will ever see).

The lawyers and “guardians” are subject to no oversight, are not required to provide any documentation for their enormous bills that are rubberstamped by the judges, and never have to actually act on behalf of the person to whom they have been assigned. I know this firsthand from having my own mother ripped from her life and forced into a facility which Medicare rates 1 out of 5 (it should be negative 10, but there is nothing under 1).

I CRINGED when Judge McHugh admonished Arthur for not using the court system to rectify the problem THAT THE COURT SYSTEM CREATED, even after Arthur explained he had attempted to do so to the tune of about $100,000 before running out of money.

This is a system clearly put in place to keep funneling money into the pockets of bar association members and their preferred “professional” (who are nothing of the sort) “guardians”, so they can all protect each other rather than the elderly it purports to serve.

Loading...

This site uses Akismet to reduce spam. Learn how your comment data is processed.

July 31 2025

Arthur Starts 3rd Month In Bucks Prison

Arthur Starts 3rd Month In Bucks Prison – Arthur Herring started, July 23, his third month in Bucks County Prison for violating the probation placed on him by Judge Raymond F. McHugh after the plight of his mother, Jane, led him to a desperate picketing of David Jaskowiak, the attorney picked by Montgomery County Orphan's Court to represent Jane.

Jane never asked to be represented by Jaskowiak.

Arthur is now 71.

Jane died, July 2, 2024, which was the day McHugh sent Arthur to prison for violating the terms of his bail.

Arthur had been arrested the previous April 27 for the picketing and placed on $100,000 bail. It was lowered to 10 percent of $10,000 after five weeks and friends were able to bail him out.

One of the conditions, however, was that Arthur not contact Jaskowiak.

He cc'd him, however, on an email with questions to the guardian of the estate. That was enough for McHugh to put the hammer on him.

Man, what a great judicial system we have. They know how to protect their own.

Elderly Arthur who weighs but 135 pounds never hurt anyone. Nor did he damage property. All he wanted was to see his mother who was kept from him by the system.

His punishment seems SOP when the rice bowl of Pennsylvania guardian system is threatened.

See the stories about Marv Rush here and here

Pennsylvania's guardian system is a sweet stream of revenue for those with connections and who cares about the pain it causes.

Arthur is serving six-to-12 months.

If Arthur ends up serving the full 12 — we think he might as he is continuing from his cell his fight — how would that compare to the sentence Downingtown West High School teacher Brandon Keith Riley-Mitchell got for child porn and sending nude photos of himself to a student?

Prepare to throw up.

Riley-Mitchell got 23 months but served just two before being placed on probation.

What say you, Judge McHugh?

Our judicial system has become a disgusting joke.

Grok 3

↑ 📌 ↺ ✎

How many months did Brandon Keith Riley-Mitchell serve for sex crime conviction in 2016

Brandon Keith Riley-Mitchell was sentenced to up to 23 months of incarceration for his 2016 sex crime conviction but was granted parole after serving just two months. 🗨️ 📺 🔍

For a great X thread concerning Riley-Mitchell check out this by Ada Nestor.

Arthur has created a website JaneHerring.net which describes his ordeal.

 BillLawrence / July 31, 2025 / Bucks, Child Services Family Courts, Montco

2 thoughts on “Arthur Starts 3rd Month In Bucks Prison”